The event was addressed by the Principal, Dr. S. Sreenivasulu, who gave a brief overview of the workshop. He highlighted the importance of health and hygiene, with special emphasis on its significance for female students. He encouraged students to adopt healthy practices for overall well-being.

The Vice Principal, Dr. K. Lakshminarayana, spoke about the importance of health in a student's life. He emphasized that students should take responsibility for their own health and, as educated individuals, should also spread health awareness among others.

The Women Empowerment Coordinator, Smt Fareesa Firdose, emphasized that health is wealth and stated that a person with good health is the richest person in the world. She explained that simple habits such as eating nutritious food, regular walking, maintaining personal cleanliness, and brushing teeth twice a day are easy yet effective practices. She also spoke about hygiene as overall well-being of both the individual and the surroundings. Stress and anxiety, which are common in today's life, were discussed, along with the importance of mental wellness and stress management.

The NCC Coordinator, Sri Kiran Jakkala, focused on anemia, a common health issue among female students. He stressed the importance of proper nutrition and regular health care to prevent and manage anemia effectively. He also advised students to manage stress by sharing their concerns and talking with trusted and known persons.

The Health, Hygiene, and Mental Wellness Awareness Program was effectively addressed by the resource person, Dr. Mansoor Ali Khan MBBS MD. In his keynote address, he emphasized that health is the overall well-being of both the body and mind, and that physical and mental health are closely connected.

He highlighted the importance of healthy habits such as regular walking, physical exercise, and consuming nutritious food to prevent lifestyle-related diseases. Special emphasis was given to anemia, a common health issue among women, explaining its causes, effects, and the need for adequate iron intake, especially among female students. Students were advised to include iron-rich foods like green leafy vegetables, fruits, jaggery, and home-based nutritious food in their daily diet, along with adequate water intake.

Dr. Mansoor Ali Khan MBBS MD. also stressed the importance of menstrual hygiene, advising female students to change sanitary pads regularly, maintain personal cleanliness, and follow hygienic practices. He further spoke about skin care and recommended the use of sunscreen.

The session also focused on mental wellness, highlighting that stress is common but manageable. Students were encouraged to share their concerns with trusted friends or family members, as social support helps reduce stress. The program created awareness about healthy lifestyles, hygiene, and mental well-being, motivating students to take responsibility for their overall health.

The second resource person Yogeswari Mata emphasized healthy daily habits such as going to bed early, waking up early, maintaining calm behavior, and avoiding conflicts. He highlighted that a calm nature and disciplined lifestyle play a crucial role in maintaining both physical and mental health. She mainly focused on topic of mental health, and said it is not right to speak with anger, because this will also create unrest in the surroundings. She stressed the need to be loving at home and in college, and the need for our body to be clean both externally and internally. It is not right to have negative feelings, and not to hurt anyone, and only when we have goodwill, we can leave anger, greed and ego.
